Princess Gets Threats, Leaves For U.S. Visit

River Dragged For Teen Pair; May Be Elopers

BENTON HARBOR (UPI) — Authorities continued dragging operations in St. Joseph River today for two teenagers missing since last Saturday.

A shoe belonging to John Hedstrom, 18, St. Joseph High School football star, was found late Wednesday in the river near the spot where the youth's car was found submerged, with the doors open and the ignition turned on.

There was speculation that Hedstrom and his missing companion, Rebecca Green, 16, a St. Joseph High School student, may have eloped but the river search continued.

Hedstrom's parents said they believe the shoe was one of an extra pair kept in the car and not one the youth was wearing.

to take off for New York, an anonymous caller telephoned London airport and said poisonous strychnine nitrate had been placed in the plane's water supply.

The caller told BOAC the poison was the same which had been reported missing from a London airport warehouse Wednesday night.

Airline crews changed the entire water supply in the plane and it took off at 11:17 a.m. (6:17 a.m. EST), 17 minutes late.

A heavy guard had already been placed around the plane because of another anonymous threat received Wednesday night.

This call was traced to a poolroom in London's sleazy Soho district. The caller said an attempt would be made to bring down the Princess' plane either by a bomb or other dubious means.

Margaret's flight fulfilled a long dream. The 35-year-old princess first expressed a wish to go to America when she was 18. But royal advisers said the journey would cause too great a security and crowd problem.

The plane is scheduled to land in New York at Kennedy International Airport at 1:35 p.m. EST for a 90-minute stopover. It then will fly on to San Francisco, arriving there at 6:05 p.m. (PST).

Tax Increases Proposed To Finance Road Building

Romney Pleased To Hear News On Districting

HONG KONG (UPI) — Michigan Gov. George Romney said today he was delighted to hear of the Michigan Supreme Court's ruling ordering reapportionment of the State Legislature.

"I think it is good news," said Romney, who is touring the Far East with 10 other U.S. governors. The group arrived here from a two-week visit to Japan for a brief stop before traveling on to South Viet Nam.

"While I'm not informed of details of the court decision, it apparently means the Apportionment Commission can now prepare a districting plan which should result in regular-shaped districts and follow local government lines where possible as well as being based essentially on population.

"I hope our State Legislature will be districted as fairly as our congressional districts were by the 1964 Legislature," he said.

State Highway Program Calls For 1.3 Billion

LANSING (UPI) — The State Highway Commission has endorsed a one cent per gallon hike in state motor fuel taxes and an increase in vehicle weight taxes to finance a $1.3 billion construction program.

Highway Department Director Howard E. Hill said the commission felt the tax increases were a must in order to finance the ambitious road-building program. Without tax increases the schedule of state trunkline building alone would fall $175 million behind by 1972, he said.

Hill said Wednesday the commission had proposed boosting taxes to take in $78.6 million more a year, of which $23.3 million would be earmarked for counties, $22.7 for cities and villages and $32.6 million for the state.

Costs 25 Cents A Week
"With these increases, which would cost the average motorist about 25 cents a week, the state can finance the entire program and counties and cities will receive substantial increases in highway funds to bolster their programs," Hill said.

If the seven-year building program is approved as proposed by the four-man commission, Michigan would have spent or committed to spend $2.75 billion between 1957 and 1972 which will see the interstate highway system completed. That figure would include completion of all presently scheduled interstate highways.

Hill said the vehicle weight tax has not been increased since 1933 and the fuel tax, stable since 1956, "is behind the average by large states with aggressive road-building programs."

"The matter is one we must face up to sooner or later," Hill said. "I trust those charged with the responsibility of providing the revenue needed to meet these needs will face the problem squarely and keep Michigan's road-building program on the move."

The program calls for road construction at a $250 million-a-year clip for the next two years. The state then would launch into a new five-year program costing $758 million.

None For Peninsula
This five-year program, starting in 1967, contemplates $429.85 million worth of construction in the five counties comprising the Detroit metropolitan area. It would cost $112.40 million in 14 southwestern counties, and $75.79 million in 25 counties of Northern Lower Michigan.

No specific program was proposed for the Upper Peninsula.

Cassopolis Man Wins 'Ugliest' Title At WMU

KALAMAZOO (UPI) — Craig Ham, a sophomore from Cassopolis, has won the title of "Ugliest Man" at Western Michigan University.

He beat out 16 other contenders in the contest which cost the voters a penny a ballot. A total of $360 was collected for charity.

DeGaulle Decides His Future Today

PARIS (UPI) — Broadcast technicians created a fireside chat atmosphere in the glittering Elysee Palace today for President Charles de Gaulle's long-awaited announcement on his political future.

France and the world waited for the answer to the big question: Would De Gaulle run for a second seven-year term in the Dec. 5 presidential election?

Aides of the tall, austere French leader contributed to the suspense, reporting only that De Gaulle planned a brief address to say "oui" or "non" on whether he would cast his hat into the ring.

The radio address was scheduled for 2 p.m. EST. The shortness of the speech — only 15 minutes — indicated to most political observers that the answer was "oui." A "no" decision, it was reasoned, would require longer to explain. De Gaulle chose the feast of St. Charles for his announcement, just 18 days short of his 75th birthday and only a month prior to the balloting.

The television and radio crews assigned to record the address two hours before broadcast time were made virtual prisoners in the palace, a move designed to guard against news leaks.

Technicians installed a cozy-looking library-study set in a section of the Grand Ballroom, and set up huge klieg lights under shimmering crystal chandeliers.

De Gaulle kept everyone, including his closest advisers, guessing until the very last minute. Wednesday, he told his cabinet in effect to "tune in tomorrow" to find out if they would still have their jobs come inauguration day next January.

Special Session Of Legislature To Scan Vetoes

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Legislature, off on a long recess, will be called back for a special session Thursday, Dec. 9 to try to override at least three gubernatorial vetoes.

House Speaker Joseph J. Kowalski, D-Detroit, and Senate Majority Leader Raymond D. Dzendzel, D-Detroit, said Wednesday they would notify lawmakers of the session in a letter to be mailed this week.

The announcement ended several days of speculation on when the quick session would be. Kowalski had wanted it to be in late November, but Dzendzel held out for December when most of the legislature's traveling committees will be back from fact-finding trips.

Acting Gov. William G. Milliken said the committee members, appointed after consultation with Democratic lawmakers, will hold their first meeting in Lansing next Tuesday.

The commission was charged under a resolution passed last spring with the job of studying legislative salaries, the processes by which salaries are set and with making recommendations to the governor and the Legislature in 1966.

The resolution called for members to come from "as many various fields of interest as possible." One-half its membership was recommended by the Senate Business Committee.

The commission will include: —Henry M. Hogan, Bloomfield Hills, who was elected to the House of Representatives in 1960 and 1962, and is now a partner in the Birmingham law firm of Emery, Parsons and Bahr.

—Mrs. Howard J. (Ruth) Lichterman, Royal Oak, who has served as special assistant to former President Eisenhower and as president of the Michigan League of Women Voters from 1959 to 1961.

—Christian F. Matthews, elected to the state Senate from Macomb County in 1934 and 1936, and past president of the Michigan State Bar Association.

—William P. Nicholls, Houghton.

ken vetoed the three bills dealing with tax relief for elderly renters and disabled veterans and an additional $1.2 million appropriation for eight state colleges and universities Oct. 28.

He said he and Gov. George Romney, currently on a trip to the Far East, had agreed the bills should be vetoed because the Legislature had taken no tax action to raise revenues to pay for the programs.

The renters bill was estimated to cost the state $6 million next year, and the veterans' bill $4 million.

Democrats immediately blasted the vetoes as "petulant act of retribution against the Legislature" and called for a special session to try to override them. Authority to call lawmakers back while in recess rested with a four-man committee of Democratic leaders from the two houses.

Republican leaders, however, said they expect their members will support the gubernatorial vetoes and not give any votes to the Democratic motions to override them.

Under the Constitution, a two-thirds vote of each house is necessary to override a veto. Democrats are one vote shy of that margin in the House and three shy in the Senate.

Commission Starts From Scratch On Districting

LANSING (UPI) — The State Apportionment Commission will meet Nov. 12 to iron out administrative problems before plunging again into the task of redrawing the state's 148 legislative districts.

The commission, ordered Tuesday by the State Supreme Court to come up with new House and Senate districts within 60 days, faces an uncertain future with no office, no staff and apparently no funds.

"The first meeting will have to face the problem of setting up an organization, staffing it, housing it, and equipping it—without an appropriation," said

Secretary of State James M. Hare, "to say nothing of per diem fees (for commissioners) and travel expenses."

Hare tried to get the eight-man group to meet this Friday, but couldn't come up with a quorum. So he set the meeting for next week.

Meanwhile, commissioners were pouring over the court's six separate opinions handed down by the high court for hints on how to go about this job this time. Party leaders were trying to assess the political repercussions of the court's action.

The eight-man court voted 5-3

Reds Pursued After 7-Hour Vietnam Battle

SAIGON (UPI) — American infantrymen battled Communist troops in seven hours of bitter fighting during the night near the U.S. Special Forces camp at Plei Me in South Viet Nam's Central Highlands.

Casualties were reported on both sides. A U.S. military spokesman said one planeload of American dead and wounded was flown to Pleiku after daybreak. Other wounded Americans were airlifted to a field hospital at Nha Trang.

Enemy Ambushed
The Viet Cong finally broke off the engagement about 4 a.m. in the face of heavy American reinforcements. U.S. troops pursued the fleeing Communists at first light, hoping to catch the main force before dark.

The battle started Wednesday night when a platoon of about 40 U.S. troops of the airborne 1st Cavalry Division ambushed a Viet Cong column nearly three times its size. The trap was part of American effort to prevent guerrillas from slipping into neutralist Cambodia after last week's big battle at Plei Me.

The American platoon pulled out after an hour of fighting against the bigger Communist force. They linked up with another 1st Cavalry Division, only to be attacked from two sides by more Communists.

U.S. commanders rushed a company of reinforcements to the area by helicopter at midnight and fighting continued until 4 a.m. when the Viet Cong finally retreated in the jungle. More fresh American troops arrived at dawn and authorities said the pursuing infantrymen were encountering light sniper fire.

Woman Writer Killed
In air action today, an American B57 bomber accidentally bombed a group of South Korean soldiers, killing one and injuring four others.

The plane was one of four B57's flying close air support for Korean infantrymen in action about 20 miles southwest of Cam Ranh Bay.

It was learned that three loose bombs dropped from the plane as it opened its bomb bay doors for an attack on a Viet Cong target.

A full investigation was ordered.

In another tragedy, Dickie Chapelle, veteran American woman war correspondent, was killed today when she stepped on a Communist land mine while accompanying Marines in action near Chu Lai.

The 47-year-old reporter for the National Observer and the RKO General Broadcasting Co. was covering her eighth war.

Miss Chapelle covered the Algerian independence war, marched through the Cuban jungles with Fidel Castro during his guerrilla campaign and was assigned to wars in Laos, Europe and the Middle East.

She was the fourth member of the Saigon press corps to be killed in the Viet Nam war. The others were Bernard Kolenberg of Albany, N.Y., Jerry Rose of the Saturday Evening Post, and Huynh Thanh My, a Vietnamese photographer for the Associated Press.

Fish Boat Sinks; 39 Cubans Drown

MERIDA, Mexico (UPI) — A fishing boat crowded with Cuban refugees disintegrated and sank off the jungled coast of southeastern Mexico, drowning 39 of the 45 persons on board, it was reported today.

The victims of the wreck included 10 children.

The Navy picked up the 6 survivors and is bringing them here to be questioned by immigration officials. It is believed they will be granted political asylum in Mexico until arrangements can be made for them to go on to the United States, their ultimate goal.

A Navy report said the boat fell apart when the refugees were within 30 miles of their goal — the resort island of Women, 130 miles from Cuba's western tip — after spending eight days and nine nights at sea.

Survivors told the Navy that 25 men, 9 women and 11 children crowded into the boat a week ago Monday in an unspecified Cuban port and slipped away by night.

The boat "came to pieces" for undetermined reasons in mild, showery weather Tuesday and sank near Contoy Island, an uninhabited outcropping of rock and sand about 20 miles off the Mexican coast.

Plane Missing With 69 Aboard

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — U.S. Air Force planes took off at dawn today to search the rugged mountains of Central America and the nearby sea for traces of an Argentine military transport missing with 69 persons aboard.

The four-engine, propeller-driven DC4 was last reported flying over the sea about 20 miles from Puerto Limon, Costa Rica, with trouble — possibly fire — in one engine.

It was one of two Argentine planes carrying a party of air cadets which left here Wednesday en route to El Salvador, on Central America's Pacific coast 750 miles northwest of Panama City. The other plane arrived safely.

Bad weather, including numerous thunderstorms, hampered the search Wednesday. U.S. Air Force Maj. Matthew T. Dunn said the search will continue at least until tonight.

Dunn said search planes are flying a "box pattern" over sea and shore. If the plane is not located in the initial search area, the pattern will be extended further inland.

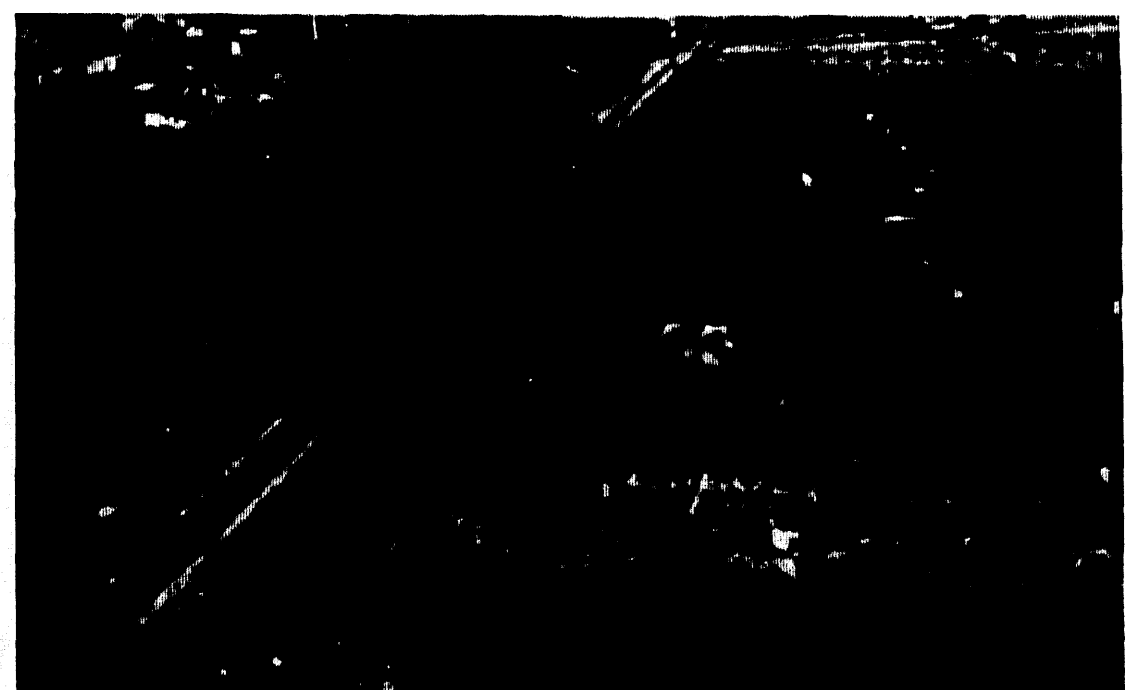

Plans Of NATO Set To Include West Germany

LONDON (UPI) — The NATO allies have brushed aside French objections and agreed to consider the formation of a nuclear planning committee to include West Germany, authoritative sources said today.

The move will be considered at a special meeting of NATO defense ministers in Paris on Nov. 26 and 27.

France has served notice she will not participate in the talks. Other countries not interested and not expected to attend are Portugal, Iceland and Luxembourg.

The plan for a NATO nuclear committee was originated by the United States in an effort to give its allies a voice in nuclear strategy and policy. U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is expected to visit London in advance of the Paris meeting to consult British leaders about the plan.

State Police To Use Titles

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan State Police announced Wednesday their top-level administrators will begin using military titles to conform with those used by other members of the force.

State Police Director Fredrick E. Davids will assume the title of Colonel, Deputy Director Melvin Kaufman will use the title of lieutenant colonel and Inspector Paul Gaboury will use the title of major.

All other ranks have used military titles, with the exception of state troopers, from the corporal level through captain for many years.

Davids became director of the new Department of State Police under the Executive Reorganization Act last week. His previous title was that of State Police commissioner.

Kaufman was the superintendent of the force under the old plan and now is director of field services, including the uniform and detective divisions. Gaboury will become the commander of the uniform division in charge of the 56 posts and eight districts.

Long Gas Line To Cross State

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Great Lakes Transmission Co., Wilmington, Del., has applied to build a 989-mile pipeline across the northern United States to carry natural gas to Eastern Canada, the Federal Power Commission (FPC) said Wednesday.

The $212 million project includes a line from the Canadian border near Emerson, Manitoba, across Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan to an export point on the border near St. Clair, Mich., the FPC said. It also includes a smaller line from the main line to an export point near Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The commission said the primary purpose of the proposal is to transport 677 million cubic feet of natural gas daily from Western to Eastern Canada for Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., Calgary, Alberta. Trans-Canada and the American Natural Gas Co., Detroit, each own a 50 per cent interest in Great Lakes Transmission.

This is the first in a series of meetings that will result in a plan for the future of occupational education for high school and post high school youths in the three counties.

Survey information developed under the direction of Miss Dolores Samson, study director, was evaluated by the group as well as consultant information regarding the general need for expanded vocational education.

Knights Sponsor Boysville Dance

The annual Michigan State Council Knights of Columbus Boysville dances will be held throughout the state as usual this fall, and Escanaba Council No. 640 will hold its dance Saturday, Nov. 6, from 9 to 1 at the clubrooms in the Sherman Hotel building.

Boysville is a non-correctional boarding school for Catholic boys, from eighth grade through high school, sponsored by the five Catholic Dioceses of Michigan.

Its operating finances are provided by Knights of Columbus of Michigan, throughout the entire state, through voluntary donations and also through projects promoted by them for this purpose.

The boys' school idea was conceived and first proposed in 1914 and was approved, officially, by the Knights of Columbus Michigan State Convention in 1917. The school-home officially opened on Oct. 7, 1917, and was blessed and dedicated by the late Cardinal Mooney, assisted by the other Michigan Hierarchy, on Sunday, Oct. 21, 1917.

Boysville is not a correctional school nor a custodial school nor is it a substitute for disciplining and training that parents or nearest of kin cannot, or will not, administer. Boysville has a very definite philosophy—"It is better to build a boy than to mend a man."

All Knights and their friends are invited to attend the Boysville dance on Saturday night for an enjoyable evening. Arrangements are in charge of Past Grand Knight Clarence T. Grabowski, Grand Knight of the Escanaba Council is Donald J. Crawford.

The next celebration will be November 18 in honor of Mrs. Birk's birthday.

Vatican II Comes Alive For Holy Name Students

By DAVE ANDREWS
The excitement of a changing Catholic Church evolving from the Vatican Ecumenical Council in Rome has spawned an equally exciting educational experience at Holy Name High School.

While Pope Paul VI and thousands of Cardinals and Bishops strive to reach common ground in their efforts to update and modernize Catholic thinking and policy, junior and sophomore boys at Holy Name have organized their own "Vatican Council."

The project, one of study, exchange of ideas and religious enlightenment, was planned by Christian Brothers Jude Michael and Jerome Eric.

Br. Michael, who taught six years at Minneapolis De La Salle High School before coming to Holy Name, is a firm believer in the value of involving his students in the educational process and to implement "Vatican II" at Holy Name he made elaborate preparations.

Students in junior homeroom 112 and sophomore homeroom 108 elected their own "Popes," who in turn appointed Cardinals and Bishops. Every student was at least a Bishop.

The sophomores, in fact, got so enthralled with their participation they sent up "white smoke" to signify election of their "Pope" and paraded through the school chanting, "Via, El Papa."

Purpose To Inform
"In simplified form, the purpose of the Vatican Council in Rome is to update the church so that the reality of Christ will have a greater impact on the people of the world," said Br. Michael.

"Our purpose here is to make sure our students don't get the idea that religion is something static. We wanted to inform and involve our students in the actual process of change."

The project began in September and since has involved most of the sophomores in both boys and girls sections in one way or other. It has had greatest impact, however, on junior boys homeroom 112 and sophomore boys homeroom 108.

The juniors elected John LaPorte as their "pope" and sophomore boys elected John LaPorte as their "pope" and sophomore boys elected John LaPorte as their "pope."

"On this basis we can arrive at a better understanding between religious," he continued.

"There are so many likenesses between religions we should highlight their similarities rather than the differences. There is no better way to bring about a better understanding and more cooperative attitude between Christians."

Students Prepared
Aside from these interdenominational seminars, the Holy Name "Council" has benefited from personal contacts and discussions with priests and sisters of different orders, said Br. Michael.

"We have had Dominican Sisters, Franciscans and school sisters of Notre Dame talk to the group," he said. "We also have had Diocesan priests, Franciscan Priests and Christian Brothers."

"The role of the layman has also been discussed by a panel in the class."

"The students have had to be prepared in this project," he continued. "If they don't do a good job, questions come flying."

"It's pretty embarrassing to have to stand up in front of the class and say, 'Well, I'll have to look into that.' When that has happened the students have generally come back the next time and done a real fine job."

late, clergy and people, bishops, seminaries, religious, and oriental and Christian churches—followed actual topics of the Rome Council.

Here Ministers
Holy Name's Vatican II is currently studying Christian churches and this morning heard a panel of three Protestant ministers (Rev. D. Douglas Seelen of the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Everett L. Wilson of the Evangelical Covenant Church, and Rev. John Erhard of the Seventh Day Adventists) discuss their faiths.

Wednesday, Rev. Erland Carlson of Christ the King Lutheran, Rev. Konstantin Wipp of First Methodist and Rev. Donald Wolf of Calvary Baptist appeared for a seminar.

"This is an attempt to create better understanding among Christians," said Fr. Lawrence Gauthier, superintendent at Holy Name. "There are basic beliefs of every religion—that's why we have different churches—but we can learn to appreciate and understand these beliefs even though we do not hold them."

"On this basis we can arrive at a better understanding between religious," he continued.

"There are so many likenesses between religions we should highlight their similarities rather than the differences. There is no better way to bring about a better understanding and more cooperative attitude between Christians."

Only 60 Days Given To Revise State Districts

LANSING (UPI)—The Michigan Supreme Court upset the apportionment apple cart for the second time in 18 months Tuesday when it ordered new legislative districts drawn up for the 1966 elections.

Tipped over by a 5-3 vote of the high court was the so-called "one man, one vote" reapportionment of State Senate and House districts adopted in June of 1964 on court orders. Balloting under the plan last year resulted in Democratic control of the legislature for the first time in 30 years.

The Supreme Court gave the eight-member State Apportionment Commission 60 days, until Jan. 1, to reapportion the districts. Former Republican Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker, cochairman of the commission, said work probably will begin at a meeting here next week.

Victory For 33

The court's decision was a victory for 33 Michigan citizens, most of them Republicans, who had charged the current districting plan was a deliberate Democratic gerrymander drawn up with the aid of past voting records and the help of the powerful United Auto Workers Union (UAW).

"The mere dividing of the state into districts of equal population does not and would not condone, justify or excuse a method or system where, by the use of previous election results, districts can be formed giving one political party advantage over the other," wrote Harry F. Kelly in one of the six opinions handed down.

All three Republicans on the court—Justices Kelly, John R. Dehmers and Michael D. O'Hara, voted to send the Democratic-drawn plan back to the commission. They were joined by two Democrats, Paul L. Adams and Eugene F. Black.

Brucker Pleased

Justice Otis M. Smith and Chief Justice Thomas M. Kavanagh, both Democrats, voted to dismiss the petition. The fifth Democrat, Theodore Souris, dissented from both positions and voted instead to extend the present apportionment through the next election until the Legislature could come up with a solution.

"Naturally I'm delighted and accept with appreciation the fact that the court got rid of the present plan which I think was unfair," Brucker said.

In a separate order several hours after the bulky opinions were released, the court ordered the commission to complete its work in 60 days and set up machinery whereby the court would take further action if the commission is deadlocked again at that time.

The present plan was ordered by the court after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in June of 1964 that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis.

But the gist of the majority opinions Tuesday was that the commission must also abide by other guidelines set up in the State Constitution to guard against gerrymandering.

State Standards Applied

"It seems clear," said Adams, "that a state may forbid political gerrymandering, and I interpret the provisions of the Michigan Constitution with regard to compactness, shape (of districts) etc., as being precisely for that purpose."

"Though the federal standards are overriding and must be followed, I see no reason why the standards and provisions in our own State Constitution should not also be applied if it is possible to do so."

The 33 petitioners had charged the Democratic plan, drawn by Commission cochairman Richard Austin of Detroit and Commissioner A. Robert Kleiner of Grand Rapids, deliberately violated the State Constitution by cutting across boundary lines of cities, townships and counties to construct a maze of irregularly shaped districts weighted to insure top-heavy Democratic majorities.

Before the plan was adopted, Republicans controlled the House 58-52 and the Senate, 23-11. After the Austin-Kleiner plan went into effect—and with the addition of four more senators under the new constitution—Democrats won the House by a 73-37 margin and the Senate, 23-15.

The three dissenters among the justices all claimed the anti-gerrymandering guidelines did not service the U.S. Supreme Court decision that struck down apportionment formulas weighted partly with area considerations in the state Constitution.

"Area Provision" Stands
"These 'standards' are not severable from the (area) provision of the apportionment formula for the House and Senate," wrote Smith.

"And short of writing a new apportionment article by judicial interpretation, we are likewise in no position to say under what conditions the various standards may apply. It is not for the court to say which standards must be obeyed and which may be ignored."

But Smith conceded the guidelines were "equitable, common-sense standards" which should be "followed in an apportionment scheme, where possible." Included, he said, were requirements that districts be compact, contiguous, regular in shape and that they follow existing boundaries.

The justices also differed in various opinions on whether the 1964 plan was approved by the court just as a provisional measure or whether they intended it to stand until a new census in 1970.

DEARBORN (UPI)—Dearborn voters Tuesday approved a pay hike for the next mayor. The voters upped the mayor's salary from $17,500 to $25,000, effective Jan. 2, 1968, the beginning of the next term.

Orville Hubbard, unsuccessful candidate Tuesday for a seat on the Wayne County Circuit Court bench, is the present mayor. He has not indicated whether he would seek re-election.

Apportionment Upset

Michigan Democrats were happy when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that one-man, one-vote would be the rule for legislative apportionment.

The ruling meant that one man's vote should be worth as much as any other man's. This balance is upset when one district with small population elects one legislator, and another district with large population only elects one legislator.

The great imbalance which has developed in America is between the cities and the rural areas. When the state legislatures were created, America was a rural nation. Now it is an urban nation, with more persons living in the cities than in the country. But many state legislatures still were dominated by a rural minority. The U.S. Supreme Court said this had to stop.

Michigan created a state apportionment commission which redistricted the state to carry out the one-man, one-vote rule by creating new elective districts of equal population.

The jubilant Democrats won control of the House and Senate of the Michigan Legislature for the first time in 30 years in the first elections held in the new districts.

Republicans were very unhappy about the result and also about the method that brought the result. They charged that there had been flagrant gerrymandering in the creation of the new elective districts in order to favor the Democrats.

(The term "gerrymander" traces to Governor Gerry of Massachusetts who signed into law a flagrantly unfair reapportionment bill creating a district shaped like a salamander. Gerrymandering is the packing of majorities into districts where their voting strength is concentrated and diminished.)

Thirty-three Michigan citizens, most of them Republicans, attacked the legality of the redistricting, charging that it was a deliberate Democratic gerrymander related to voting records and authored by the United Auto Workers Union.

The Michigan State Supreme Court in a 5 to 3 decision written in six different opinions has ordered the Michigan Apportionment Commission to draw up new legislative districts for the 1966 election. The work will begin next week.

It is an oversimplification to say that the court found the gerrymandering charged, but it is impressive that Michigan's court, which has a Democratic majority, upset the Austin-Kleiner plan of apportionment named for the Democratic co-chairmen of the apportionment commission. At the time of commission consideration it was ascribed to UAW's Solidarity House, which has been campaigning for reapportionment since 1952 to give Democrats more voting power.

The suit charges that the plan cuts across boundaries of cities, townships and counties to create irregularly shaped districts weighted to insure Democratic majorities.

Justice Paul L. Adams of Sault Ste. Marie, a Democrat, opined that although federal standards override state standards should also apply where possible. This is the heart of the court's action. It says to the apportionment commission, in effect: We're not in opposition to the U.S. Supreme Court's rule of one-man, one-vote, but there can still be great inequities in apportionment with one-man, one-vote if there's gerrymandering—the distortive blocking up of votes for party benefits.

The new Michigan Constitution requires that voting district created by apportionment be compact, contiguous, regular in shape and that they follow existing boundaries. The apportionment commission is asked to try and reconcile the U.S. Supreme Court's directive and the provisions of the Michigan Constitution to Michigan's legislative apportionment, as being compatible and complementary and not in conflict.

There's no prospect of much comfort for the U.P. In any new look of apportionment. The 37th Senate District and the 106th House District straddle the Straits of Mackinac and so are not contiguous, but population presents a factor here, especially in the senate district, which seems insuperable in a contiguous district.

Nature Centers

Every 24 hours America loses over 3,000 acres of natural land to development. This amounts to about one million acres a year going into such things as urban expansion, housing subdivisions, shopping centers, highways and so on.

Fewer and fewer children today have the benefit of first-hand, intimate experience with the wonders and beauties of land in its natural and unexplored state.

Even our many excellent state and national parks are becoming overtaxed by a growing population with the leisure and money to travel whatever distances are required to reach these oases of nature.

Realizing that the problem of conservation in an urban nation depends in large part on reaching children, who will have charge of our natural resources in the future, the National Audubon Society in 1944 came up with the idea of educational nature centers.

These would be areas of undeveloped land near communities, modest patches of forest and meadow and stream, by means of which trained teacher-naturalists could lead children to personal experiences with nature. They would be outdoor laboratories — "green islands for learning" — to which school teachers could bring their classes, scout leaders their troops, parents their children.

Today there are some 200 nature centers in the United States and Canada, both publicly and privately administered. Some of the best ones have conservation demonstration areas, astronomical observatories, model farms and gardens, weather stations and scientific libraries and other education aids. Others are simply a pleasant preserve where the typical flora and fauna of the locality can be seen.

It is hoped there will be 1,000 of them by 1985 and twice that number by the year 2000.

The city nature centers teach city kids about nature. In the country they're often expected to pick it up by osmosis and they don't with the result that the city kids learn more about rural environment than the rural kids who live in it.

The Unveiling

Lag On Succession

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Johnson's swift recovery from his gall bladder operation probably takes much of the steam out of efforts to gain quicker state approval of a constitutional amendment covering presidential inability.

Yet this discussion which swirled up when his need for an operation was announced suggests that the country is seriously handicapped without this new constitutional provision.

The amendment provides, of course, for transfer of the president's powers and duties to the vice president in any instance of presidential inability. It also authorizes procedures for return of power to the president when the inability has ended.

The way things are going, however, it could easily be 1967 before this proposal wins the necessary approval of 38 of the 50 states.

Only eight have endorsed it so far. The opportunity to act confronts another handful in the remainder of 1965. Legislatures in Rhode Island, New Jersey and Delaware are still in regular session. Alabama and California have special sessions under way, and Indiana and Arkansas may join this list.

Some 15 states meet in regular session next year, but four of these already have approved the amendment. A few others will be holding budget sessions, which might or might not be enlarged to permit action on the proposal.

The rest of the legislatures will not convene their next regular biennial sessions until 1967. Barring a flock of special sessions, the inability proposition can hardly be enacted before that time.

One state government specialist, however, noted that more legislatures do not meet annually, says: "The nation is handicapped from acting to protect itself because so many states hold themselves to biennial sessions."

Former vice president Richard Nixon told this reporter in recent conversation that special sessions should indeed be called to push the constitutional amendment to speedy adoption.

In Nixon's view, and it is backed up by many lawyers and constitutional scholars, the informal letter from President Johnson to Vice President Humphrey, covering transfer of power in case of inability, can have no real legal status. The Constitution says nothing about a president handing off his powers and duties temporarily to the vice president or anybody else.

Says Nixon: "I think the letter only takes care of Subject A—the possibility of an international emergency. If the President were unable, no one would question the propriety of the Vice President acting in such a situation."

Nixon, of course, got the first of the "inability letters." Dwight Eisenhower penned one to him in early 1958, after having suffered three serious illnesses in less than three years. Though he did not get his letter until after Eisenhower's illness, Nixon says today that even if he had been armed with it he would have used the transferred presidential power sparingly. He adds:

"I never signed anything when the President was sick, and I would not have had there been another illness after I received the letter."

His judgment is that the signing of bills and military commissions, the award of television and radio franchises, the award of air routes, and countless other presidential prerogatives could all be subject to serious court challenge if performed by a vice president acting under an informal agreement.

If this widely supported appraisal is valid, then the Johnson-Humphrey letter, like the Eisenhower-Nixon and Kennedy-Johnson letters before it, is gravely flawed as an instrument intended to convey power in a time of presidential inability.

The experts' consensus is that the power transfer will not "take" until it is embedded in the Constitution. Unhappily, too many among the 50 states seem in no hurry to put it there.

The Doctor Says:

Old Wives' Tale Faulty

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

There is an old belief that persons who have an excess of gas in the digestive tract and bloat a lot have gall bladder disease, especially if they are fair (female), fat and 40. This is just another old wives' tale.

Even when such a person is found to have gallstones the dyspeptic symptoms are, more often than not, due to something else—a faulty diet, an irritable colon, a peptic ulcer or appendicitis. Many persons have had their gall bladders removed and found to their dismay that the old symptoms were still present.

Chronic inflammation of the gall bladder (cholecystitis) may cause a mild distress in the pit of the stomach or, if gallstones are present, an agonizing pain in the region of the gall bladder extending to the right shoulder blade. There may also be a low fever and intermittent bouts of mild jaundice. X rays made after taking an opaque dye usually fail to show the gall bladder because the dye which would normally accumulate in it cannot enter it.

Because the characteristics of gall bladder disease are not clear-cut and other conditions have to be considered, the diagnosis is not easy and should be made in a hospital. Since the treatment of this disease is rarely an emergency, the wise doctor will make every effort to get the obese victim to lose weight. This improves the patient's chances of successfully withstanding the operation and makes it easier for the surgeon

Steel Workers Union To Fight For Civil Rights

DETROIT (UPI) — A high-ranking union official has been named director of the United Steelworkers' Union's Civil Rights Committee apparently in an effort to bring greater militance to the USW's effort to eliminate discrimination within the steel industry.

Newly elected President I. W. Abel's more militant civil rights drive has elevated Alex Fuller, 52, vice president of the Wayne County AFL-CIO Council, to the director's post succeeding Francis Shane of Pittsburgh.

The Civil Rights Committee of the USW will be headed by Joseph P. Mooney, a vice president of the union. Fuller will work with Mooney as director. The USW said the move will be an effort to end all discrimination within the steel industry, which numbers 250,000 Negroes among 1,100,000 steelworkers.

Ann Landers

Harry A Horse? Cut The Kidding

Dear Ann Landers: I just read your answer to the 15-year-old girl who bites her fingernails way down. You said, "When you find out what's eating you you'll stop eating your nails. Get professional help."

Almost every day in your screwball column you are telling someone to get professional help. Pray tell, Ann Landers, what is eating YOU? If you had your way, every third person in the United States and Canada would be going to a psychiatrist.

In the first place, there are not enough psychiatrists to go around. In the second place they are too blooming expensive. In the third place, most psychiatrists are nuttier than a fruit cake and THEY need professional help.

Isn't it barely possible that the girl who bites her nails is a little nervous? I've known people who have bitten their nails all their lives and never ended up in the hatch.

Yours for saner and sounder advice. — ALSO A NAIL BITER

Dear Also: Some nail-biters aren't concerned about the habit, but the girl who wrote wanted advice and I offered it. YOU would probably chew your nails up to the elbow before you'd admit something was bothering you.

True, there aren't enough psychiatrists to go around but this is no reason not to recommend professional help.

Psychiatry is not the sure cure for all mankind's ills, but it has restored many wretched, useless people to a life of productivity and contentment and I support it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem you've never heard of. My husband thinks he is a race horse. Harry refuses to eat anything but oats. When I serve him delicious T-bone steaks and double-thick lamb chops he snorts and refuses to settle down until I slip a bag of oats around his neck.

Harry thinks he won the Kentucky Derby. Last night he was repeating the Derby story and one of the listeners, who has known Harry all his life said, "Are you saying you rode the winner of the Derby?" My husband replied, "Rode nothing... I WAS the winner."

Ann, what am I going to do? Now he wants to sleep in the barn and it's getting very cold. Don't tell me to take him to a psychiatrist. He won't go to anyone but a veterinarian. — DESPERATE

Dear Desperate: So your husband thinks he's a horse? Well, you have a more serious problem. YOU think you are a comedian. Get a part time job and stop wasting my time with phony letters.

Dear Ann Landers: A recent column has stirred up considerable conflict among my friends. I am referring to your statement that the parents of the bridesmaids should be invited to the wedding "no matter how small the church is."

We believe such advice is small-townish and impractical. Often the guest list must be abbreviated because of family obligations on both sides. This means many friends must be omitted — close friends at that — and it is hoped that they will understand.

Does it make sense then, that the parents of the bridesmaids who are often nodding acquaintances (or total strangers) be invited simply so they can enjoy the pleasure of seeing their darling daughter in the wedding procession?

Your advice is usually pretty sound, Ann, but this time I think you should eat your words.

Delta Closing Blacktop Gaps In Road System

Delta County's "master plan" for a blacktop road system covering all the county came together several more links this year as result of construction projects.

William Karas, Delta County road superintendent, reports that the county, with federal aid, rebuilt 13.3 miles of grade on two roads for blacktopping in the 1966 season.

There were 7.3 miles of construction of grade on County Road 426 from the Frank Baron farm to the Cornell Township Hall at a federal-county joint cost of $50,350.

There were 6 miles of construction on County Road 519 from Cornell to St. Nicholas through a swampy area where construction was aided by the dry season.

This work, said Karas, ties blacktop highway from St. Nicholas to Rock and M-35, and in Flat Rock, Danforth and Cornell areas on 519 to supply missing links in the county system.

Blacktop Projects

From Hyde north to Danforth there's still 4 miles of swamp road to rebuild.

This year's blacktopping program, held up for months by the state highway sign controversy that stopped federal aid, provided 4.5 miles of surfacing on the Boney Falls Road 523, just finished and 1.5 miles of Primary Road 521 in Ford River Township near the Hildring Olson farm, connecting County Road 333 north of Hyde with County Road 69. The program cost $54,000 split 50-50 by the county and Federal Bureau of Roads.

With the new construction there'll be blacktop from Fuller Park on Green Bay north to Bark River, Schaffer and Riverview, east to the Mead Corp. plant, and north to Flat Rock, Cornell, Woodland and Marquette County with the new Cornell to St. Nicholas and Beaver to Rock blacktop tied in.

Snow Costs Up

The county spent $34,000 more last winter on snow removal than the year before and this is always a limiting factor on its summer construction program, but Karas said Delta was able with a $40,000 county appropriation and $23,000 from its own road funds to total $63,000 for funds to match federal aid for a normal construction program.

"Our great trouble," said Karas "is with local roads; there is no federal aid for such construction and we must rely on the townships for help and some of them are in very poor position financially to aid. We get about $700 a year per mile for primary road and only $165 for local roads."

There was no bridge construction by the county this year although there is serious need for it. No township matching funds were available for bridge construction on local roads where the greatest need exists.

New Marquette Poverty War Director Named

MARQUETTE — Howard Pierce, 29, Detroit, an administrative assistant in an anti-poverty program conducted by the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit, has been hired as director of the Marquette-Alger Community Action Board.

The board, which has been given a federal grant of $79,000 under the Economic Opportunity Act, fixed Pierce's salary at $9,600, with a 12% addition allowed to finance workmen's compensation, social security and other fringe benefits.

A three room office has been provided in the former Holy Family Orphans' Home in Marquette, with a branch of office being set up in the Alger County Courthouse in Munising.

The $79,000 grant to the Marquette-Alger unit is the largest amount provided any Community Action Agency in the Upper Peninsula.

Tolerance Of Porcupines Urged

Best Forest Garbagemen

By LEE SMITS

A high-level panel discussion was held in a snug camp on the Au Train flooding in Marquette County — subject: the porcupine. Taking part were Kenneth S. Lowe, executive editor of the Marquette Mining Journal and this old timer.

Ken said he had met two men who defended the ecological role of the porcupine — a forester and a mammalogist. The forester said that, under primitive conditions, porcupines would aid in the thinning of young conifers. The mammalogist believed that porcupine cuttings, falling to the ground in the winter, might help provide deer food.

The late Square Deal Miller of Detroit, in his camp at the headwaters of the Huron, discovered a method whereby porcupines solved the problem of sewage and garbage disposal. Since they will devour anything with a trace of salt, a sheet-iron container containing all camp refuse was kept clean by a team of porcupines.

One night a party of deer hunters leaped from their beds, hearing childish voices gabbling outside. They had never heard porcupines talk. A few of these fantastic animals were in conversation on the wood pile. An old Chippewa told me many years ago how the children of a chief were transformed into porcupines by a medicine man to save them from a Sioux war party. The medicine man was killed in the raid and there was no one around able to change the porcupines back into youngsters.

so they kept on being porcupines who, at night, tell stories of their childhood in the chief's lodge.

I have never known a native woodsman who didn't kill porcupines on sight. No man ever lived in the woods without collecting a grudge against the species; a pet axe or canoe paddle chewed up; boots mangled while the owner slept; a cabin entered and flooring gnawed past repair. In recent times porcupines have become fond of car tires and battery cables.

You will still hear the myth of a porcupine saving the life of a man lost without a gun, being the only animal that can easily be killed with a club. We used to be told that, over in some other state, porcupines were protected by law on that account. Keep check on the porcupines you encounter on the ground and you will be aware that a lost man might go hungry a long, long time before he could kill one.

Cruising around Higgins Lake, in early spring, a quarter of a century ago, Harold Titus and I sighted a dozen porcupines on the ground within two hours. I keenly regret that we didn't try to find out what they were after. Grass, maybe? After a long winter on a bark diet.

My own porcupine experiences lead off with an encounter with a young porcupine on Belle Isle. This animal, named Rosie, was backstage in the Children's Zoo. She had the run of the place and was not only tame, but seemed to be affectionate. A porcupine has a very low IQ. Like the skunk, he doesn't need much intelligence. But Rosie had learned not to flip her tail when she was picked up. More than that, she actually would take your finger in her mouth — gently. Even half grown, she could snap the finger off as though it were a radish, yet she merely nibbled, playfully.

Porcupines have moved onto the Saskatchewan prairies where trees are few and skinny. Control of prairie fires enabled them to spread out from timbered areas. They look extra big, and they put grouse dogs temporarily out of business. Most dogs need only one treatment to be porcupine proof. Carl T. Johnson, Conservation Commissioner and a bear-dog specialist, tells of Airedales that get madder and madder at porcupines. After being jabbed full of quills a fighting Airedale will tear a porcupine apart, then charge into another one without waiting to be de-quilled.

The maddest I ever got at a porcupine was many years ago, camping in an old dam-tender's cabin on the Fox River. This animal consumed a major portion of my only hat, starting with the sweat band. I retaliated by spanking him with a gunny sack, leaving his rump completely naked. Then came an enormous mosquito hatch, and I felt ashamed, watching the cuss trying to bat off layers of mosquitoes.

Ken Lowe and I concluded our formal meeting by adopting a resolution to the effect that porcupines were more amusing than evil and that it was hoped that there would always be a few of them visible in the Michigan woods.

Copper Range Raises Price To 38 Cents

NEW YORK (UPI) — Copper Range Co., has announced a price hike of two cents a pound for primary copper to 38 cents a pound. The boost was effective immediately.

Copper range thus becomes the first domestic producer to raise its copper price since a Chilean government-ordered two-cent boost pushed copper prices outside the United States to the 38-cent level.

African producers quickly followed the late October move by Kennecott Copper Corp. and Anaconda Co. on their Chilean output.

Anaconda's copper is now sold here at a composite price based on its price for copper mined in Chile, some of which it sells here, and copper from its domestic mines.

The strawberry is a member of the rose family.

Use Collective Bargaining, Food Producers Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A National Grange spokesman suggested that farmers bargain collectively in the same manner as organized labor to protect the market and combat blacklisting or boycotts.

Harry L. Graham, the farm organization's legislative representative, said that "just as labor has demonstrated its right to protect its own markets through collective bargaining, the time is fast approaching when agriculture must do precisely the same thing."

Graham's statement was included in testimony prepared for the National Commission on Food Marketing, which today opened its last scheduled public hearing. A total of 15 witnesses during the two-day session are expected to suggest means of strengthening farmers' bargaining power.

QUICHE LORRAINE
Kesh Lar-rain FILLING

1/2 lb. Good Value sliced bacon (about 12 slices)
1/2 lb. sharp cheddar cheese, grated (1 C.)
3 eggs
2 C. milk
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

Fry bacon until crisp. Drain on paper towels. Crumble into pastry-lined pie pan. Over this sprinkle grated cheese. Beat eggs, milk, and seasonings until blended. Pour over bacon and cheese in pan. Bake in 400° even 35 to 45 minutes. Test for doneness at edge of crust. When knife comes out clean near edge, remove from oven, even though center still appears soft. Cool 10 minutes before serving.

Super Tip: As the custard cools 10 minutes, at room temperature the center will finish cooking.

This is very versatile, for it may be served as the main dish for brunch, lunch, supper, or late evening snack. Pastry for 9" single crust pie.

State Highway Program Goes To 1.3 Billion

LANSING (UPI)—The Michigan State Highway Commission has reached $175 million beyond its expected revenue and approved a seven-year road building program of $1.3 billion.

State Highway Director Howard E. Hill said an increase in the motor fuel tax or the motor vehicle weight tax or both might be required to finance the program. The department is already bonded to near capacity, he said.

The program calls for completion of all scheduled 1,081 miles of interstate highways in Michigan. It would also speed up building of primary, secondary and urban road systems.

The commission called for road building at a $250 million clip in the next two years to round off a five-year program. This would be topped by another five-year program costing $758 million.

If the program is carried out it would mean that the total highway construction outlay for the 15 year period ending in 1972 would total $2,754 billion.

Commission Chairman Ardale W. Ferguson said the commission approved the schedule "because this is the program the state needs."

Hill said that even though the program cannot be financed with estimated income, "I cannot in good conscience trim the schedule to meet anticipated revenue." He said increasing population and auto travel "indicate a clear and present need for this program."

Hill said the vehicle weight tax has not been increased since 1933 and the fuel tax, stable since 1956, "is behind the average by large states with aggressive road-building programs."

"The matter is one we must face up to sooner or later," he said. "I trust those charged with the responsibility of providing the revenue needed to meet these needs will face the problem squarely and keep Michigan's road-building program on the move."

Klan Leader's Ashes Buried; No Mourners

READING, Pa. (UPI)—A temporary metal marker showed the grave of Daniel Burros, a New York Ku Klux Klan leader who was cremated without mourners or flowers.

Burros, 28, who killed himself Sunday when his Jewish origin was disclosed, was cremated Tuesday and his ashes interred at a non-sectarian cemetery as directed by his parents.

Thomas Feeney, funeral director, and an assistant performed the cremation, put the remains in a metal box and transported it to the cemetery in a passenger car, stopping for traffic lights enroute. A cemetery employee joined them in lowering the box into concrete vault. The temporary marker, to be replaced by a permanent one, has Burros' name, birthdate and date of death.

She wore a single strand of cultured pearls, the bridegroom's gift and she carried a bouquet of white mums with trailing ivy.

Moss Green

Identical floor length empire gowns of moss green were worn by her attendants, Jean Ozimac, honor maid for her sister and Betty Coran. Escanaba was bridesmaid. They wore oyd to match lace mantillas and shoes and their pearl chokers were the bride's gift. They carried gold and bronze bouquets.

Children's Book Week Observed At Library Here

National Children's Book Week is being celebrated all over America, Oct. 31-Nov. 7, held to show the public what the boys and girls of today are reading and what they are being offered to read.

Escanaba Public Library has for its community a brightly decorated children's room and tables generously covered with a display of the newer children's books in this room. The city's schools have to bring their classes down for special visits during the week. Many classes are taking advantage of this opportunity to see what the library has to offer, said Librarian John M. Ptacek.

"Those who visit the children's room will see an enlarged, remodeled, and redecorated area for the community's children. A collection, broad in range, of almost 10,000 books is available to tempt reading appetites. Along with these books the library has for loaning purposes, a collection of almost 15,000 mounted pictures, useful for school or home bulletin boards or lecture programs," he said.

A Story Time program is held for children on each Saturday morning during the school year for boys and girls of the age of three and above. A trained child-school or home bulletin boards girls with their reading problems and book selection.

Bean Receives Service Award

GRAND RAPIDS — George E. Bean, distinguished in the field of city management, was honored here by the community as its former city manager who retired in September.

Bean served as city manager of Escanaba from 1936 to 1945, was at Grand Rapids twice, Peoria, Ill., and San Diego, Calif.

Bean looked pleased but uncomfortable as City Hall associates and others spent nearly an hour kidding him and making laudatory speeches.

Present was Orin F. Nolting of Chicago, executive director of the International City Managers Association. He presented Bean, a former association president, a distinguished service award.

Bean got in his punches at the end, citing the song in "Mary Poppins" about the "spoonful of sugar that helps the medicine go down."

But he insisted a good city manager cannot be "a sugar specialist. His concern is with the medicine. If it does not go down, there is no progress."

He added that the city manager always is involved when new ideas or projects reach the point of decision. "And the point of decision is always conflict."

"How can you be at the North Pole and the South Pole at the same time?" Bean asked. He then outlined his only test of good public relations: "When I leave a community, I ask myself, 'Is that community a better place for my having been there?'"

The answer, from a succession of speakers, was a resounding "Yes!"

First Ward Commissioner Bernard S. Barto, presiding at the banquet at the Panlind Hotel presented Bean a retirement gift.

Barto, getting in a good-natured dig at Bean for his advocacy of merging some fire and police operations, handed Bean a combination police and fire chief hat adorned by badges of both offices.

The International City Managers Association award recognized Bean's leadership in fostering the city manager form of government and praised his "outstanding contributions to good local government during a public service career of 38 years."

State Warned To Lead Fight On Pollution

LANSING (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley has warned city, state and industrial representatives at a meeting on water pollution unless Michigan takes the "primary responsibility for the enforcement of pollution control law," the Federal government would intervene.

Kelley, in a speech to the water pollution law conference, stressed that water pollution control was the responsibility of both those enforcing the laws and those concerning whom enforcement action might be taken.

"All of us, those who administer the laws, as well as those who must abide by them, have responsibilities toward the public to obey these laws voluntarily so that the desired objective of restoring and keeping our water's clean be achieved with a minimum amount of coercion," he said.

Kelley said "so long as the states measure up to their responsibilities, they need have no fear of federal intervention; but on the other hand, we were warned that should we fail in this duty, Congress would have no hesitation in preempting the field."

"It has been the position of the officials of the state of Michigan that the primary responsibility for the enforcement of pollution control laws resides in the state and that the state should meet this obligation without any hesitation or equivocation," he added.

Rep. Joseph M. Snyder, D-St. Clair Shores, and Sen. Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, were to discuss the role of the Legislature in fighting water pollution.

Murray Stein, an official of the Water Supply Pollution Control Division of the Public Health Service, was to speak on the role of the federal government in water pollution law enforcement.

The scientific view was to be given by Dr. Leon Weinberger of the Public Health Service. Industry representatives were from Dow Chemical Co., Ford Motor Co., and the Mead Corp. Adv for 9:30 a.m., today, Nov. 2.

The crux of the problem, according to Hare, is that these persons are paid on a fee system and thus not eligible under federal law for Social Security or Medicare. Those who derive their full income from their patronage posts want the federal benefits, he said.

"These witnesses came here to give testimony that will demonstrate a great inequity in government," Hare said. "The Administration Board can't do too much about the problem, but we do hope to bring it to the public's attention."

"Conceivably there could be a legislative way out of the problem," said Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohan. "We will do our best to work out a proposal to alleviate the problem which, I am sure, is not unique to Michigan."

Earlier this year, the State Civil Service Commission ordered about nine major branch offices and personnel placed under the state's Civil Service System and put on a state salary. These personnel would have been eligible for the federal benefits.

But Hare contended it would be unfair to consider only a portion of the branch offices, and that it would be too expensive to put them on the state's payroll.

The difference of opinion between Hare and the commission goes to court next month.

Patronage Jobs Lack Benefits

LANSING (UPI)—Holders of the last patronage jobs in Michigan asked the State Administration Board Tuesday to help them get Social Security and Medicare benefits.

Secretary of State James M. Hare appoints about 250 persons as managers and employees who operate the state branch offices where license plates are sold. Of the 250, about 35 depend on that job for a livelihood, he said.

"It has been the position of the officials of the state of Michigan that the primary responsibility for the enforcement of pollution control laws resides in the state and that the state should meet this obligation without any hesitation or equivocation," he added.

"All of us, those who administer the laws, as well as those who must abide by them, have responsibilities toward the public to obey these laws voluntarily so that the desired objective of restoring and keeping our water's clean be achieved with a minimum amount of coercion," he said.

Kelley said "so long as the states measure up to their responsibilities, they need have no fear of federal intervention; but on the other hand, we were warned that should we fail in this duty, Congress would have no hesitation in preempting the field."

Medics Going Into Viet Nam

SAIGON (UPI) — Seven hundred American soldiers will soon fan out across South Viet Nam to fight disease rather than Viet Cong.

The troops from the medical corps will be assigned to every province in the country in a nationwide effort to raise the health standards of the back country.

The new project will be a unique combination of military and civilian aid. U.S. Army medical corps teams will work as part of the civilian aid mission.

Short Of Doctors

The Army medics will come to Viet Nam in 16-man teams, until there is one team in each of the nation's 44 provinces. Humphreys says the first teams will arrive here in mid-November. Each will consist of three Army doctors, an administrative officer, and 12 enlisted men, including male nurses, and X-ray, pharmacy and laboratory technicians.

The teams are the American answer to a desperate shortage of Vietnamese doctors, made worse by the demands of war. Vietnamese government figures show that there are only 900 physicians in this country. About 600 of them are in the Army. A handful have abandoned medicine for business or politics.

This leaves about 280 doctors for a civilian population of about 14.5 million. About 150 of these work for the Ministry of Health, caring for patients too poor to pay doctors' bills.

Too Poor To Pay

Even these government doctors work only half time in order to eke out small government salaries, such as $120 per month for a medical professor. With eight million Vietnamese considered too poor to pay the 40-cent cost of a doctor's consultation fee, the Public Health Service is left with the equivalent of one full-time doctor for every 100,000 indigent people.

The American Army hopes to at least make a dent in the problem. The first American teams will be assigned to the refugee crowded provinces of Quang Tri and Quang Ngai in central Viet Nam.

They will be paid and supported by the U.S. Army but will get their working orders from the American Aid Mission and the Vietnamese Health Ministry.

Permits Exceed Antlerless Deer Hunt Applicants

Although there has been so little interest in the rifle deer hunt which starts in the Upper Peninsula Saturday, Nov. 13, that the special permits to hunt antlerless deer were not exhausted in three of its 13 districts, a large turnout of hunters is expected for the opener.

This is apt to be especially true in the eastern Upper Peninsula counties, reasons Joseph Vogt, Escanaba District game biologist of the Conservation Department, because there will be a full week between the opening of the Upper Peninsula and Lower Peninsula deer hunts this month.

The situation will encourage Lower Peninsula hunters to try their hunt luck in the U. P., opening, especially since Nov. 11 is Veterans Day and some Lower Peninsula workers can have a long weekend from Wednesday night by only missing work on Friday.

Another factor working for a large turnout of hunters, Vogt thinks, is the apparent abundance of deer. He'll have more specific information on the herd before the hunt, but car kills, he said, indicate that herd numbers are up.

Car Kills Up
There have been more deer kills by cars this fall than last year, and the 1964 car kill was higher than in 1963, indicating a herd buildup.

The Lower Peninsula hunt does not start until Saturday, Nov. 20. The U. P. hunt ends Sunday, Nov. 28 and the Lower Peninsula hunt on Sunday, Dec. 5.

Vogt said that the Conservation Department at Lansing reported that antlerless deer hunt special applications did not exhaust available permits in three U. P. areas: Numbers 5, 8 and 9.

These areas aid their quotas are:

No. 5, Iron County, 8,978 permits.

No. 8, Delta County, the bottom of Alger and the west side of Schoolcraft, 8,100 permits. (Boundaries of No. 8 are M-35, Marquette County Road 456, U. S. 41, M-67, M-94.)

Islands Neglected
No. 9, East Alger County, bounded by M-94 south from Munising, M-28 and M-77 to Grand Marais, 1,500 permits.

The permits for Bois Blanc and Beaver islands weren't exhausted and one area in the hunt club district in the Lower Peninsula had permits unclaimed.

The Conservation Commission may make the island permits available to hunters on a first come, first served basis as the herds should be reduced. This would be a departure from practice, which has ended the issuance of permits with the closing of applications, awarding permits by lot when applications outnumbered permits.

The unclaimed U. P. mainland permits will not be issued. Successful applicants got their permits last week, unsuccessful applicants were notified this week.

Conservation officers report less complaint about shooting of antlerless deer this year. There has been some flak in Menominee County, which gets its first antlerless deer hunting this year, making the U. P. uniform in this method of deer herd control to avoid winter famine.

Some hunters have grumbled "If they want does shot, we'll shoot them and leave them in the woods." But this sort of talk has been heard each year and seems at low ebb this year.

Commission Starts From Scratch On Districting

long-range implications might be for their legislative candidates.

Drawback For Campaigns
"We certainly should come out in better shape the next time," said GOP State Chairman Elly M. Peterson, "but of course we don't know whether there will be major redistricting or only minor changes in the current plan."

"One big drawback is that this will slow up our candidate recruiting for next year as we now are without districts. But the Democrats will be having the same problems."

Robert J. McIntosh, executive assistant to Gov. George Romney, predicted redistricting would result in "at least five additional seats in the House and two in the Senate" for Republicans, who now are on the short end of a 73-37 and 23-15 split.

Tug Aground West Of Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE (UPI)—Eight men were taken off a grounded tug and barge in gale force winds today by a lifeboat from the Canadian icebreaker Alexander Henry.

The U.S. Coast Guard station here said the tug and barge were aground southwest of the Soo Locks in Mosquito Bay, just east of Lake Superior. Four men were aboard the tug Meresford and four manned the barge Johnson.

The Canadian lifeboat was used because it was more suitable for the rescue operation than larger U.S. Coast Guard boats. All eight men were reported in good condition.

The tug and the 260-foot barge went aground about 11 p. m. Wednesday on the Michigan side of the narrow bay. Winds were gusting up to 60 miles per hour at the time.

The Coast Guard said an attempt would be made later in the day, weather permitting, to refloat the tug whose stern was awash in 12 feet of water. The tug and barge were clear of the main channel and were not considered hazards to navigation.

The tug is owned by the A.B. MacLean Co., Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Eskymo Jim Hansen was named to the all-conference second team while back Steve Anzalone and tackle Mike King received honorable mention. Crusaders named to the honorable mention list were backs Bill Fodor and John Lark, guards Dale Shandonay and Bill Mineau and tackle Peter Petr.

The conference champion Kingsford Flippers dominated the first team with five players making the grade. Honorables from Coach Rae Drake's team were backs Chris Alberti and Tom Johnson, tackle Jeff Gill, center Bill Bailey and guard Dave Beaster. The Flippers also had halfback Jim Strolberg on the second team.

Coach Ken Hofer's Stephenson Eagles were represented on the first team by fullback Mickey Raboin, while ends Wayne Douville and Bob Millinger, center Ray Borski, tackle Bob Nerat and back Jerry Rasner were named to the second team.

Joining Gauthier at the end spot on the first team was Menominee's Jim Uecke.

The coaches selected their all-conference players on an all-opponent basis. Because of voting ties, there were five backs named to the first team and three ends to the second team.

In other action, Commissioner Harold Johnson of Escanaba presented the varsity football championship trophy to Kingsford and the junior varsity trophy to Menominee.

The conference wrestling meet was set for Saturday, Jan. 22, at Iron Mountain with teams from Iron Mountain, Kingsford and Escanaba competing.

Conference basketball and spring sports plans were set and the spring meeting was slated Wednesday, March 23, following completion of the state basketball tournament.

Iowa Continues Secret Workout For MSU Clash

By United Press International

Iowa's upset-minded Hawkeyes went through their third straight day of secret drills Wednesday for their clash with Big Ten leader Michigan State Saturday.

Jerry Burns refused to disclose the strategy he would use when he sends his Hawkeyes against the nation's No. 1 ranked team. Iowa is 0-5 in Big Ten action.

In the Michigan State camp, Coach Duffy Daugherty continued helping praise on his charges, but refused to comment on his Rose Bowl chances. The Spartans have only Iowa and Indiana to beat to clinch the Pasadena trip.

Minnesota ran through a long passing drill in polishing for Northwestern, with quarterback John Hankinson doing most of the throwing. The Gopher defensive unit drilled against Northwestern's plays.

The Wildcats worked on a defense aimed at stopping Hankinson, whom Coach Alex Agase called "probably the most dangerous quarterback we have yet faced this season."

Brothers Pete and Bump Elliott sent their squads through heavy practice sessions in preparation for the Illinois-Michigan game at Champaign Saturday.

Bump had his Wolverines concentrating at stopping the Illinois offense, while Pete benched the injuries to his Illinois.

Three Wisconsin regulars returned to practice after recovering from injuries. Fullback Tom Jankowski, tackle Phil Sobocinski and linebacker Bob Richter will be ready for Purdue, Milt Bruhn said.

Purdue mentor Jack Mollenkopf apologized for blasting officials of the Michigan State-Boilermaker game, then ran his charges through a brisk workout.

Indiana searched for a second-string fullback for its game with Ohio State, with three backs each getting a five-minute trial for the job in scrimmages.

In This Corner with Ray Crandall

Just like the athletes about whom they write, Upper Peninsula scribes from daily and weekly newspapers are sharpening the tools of their trade for the annual fall meeting which will be held Saturday in Dollar Bay, near Houghton. The sports-writers have a monumental task in front of them—as usual. How would you like the job of sitting down with a dozen other guys and picking the top 11 football players, the best coach and the best team in the Upper Peninsula this season.

The list of candidates for Coach of the Year honors will read like a Who's Who in area prep circles. For a starter, how about Bill Earle of Munising who stunned the Great Lakes Conference with a surprise championship team. It's no secret that Munising is regarded by many as a "graveyard" for football mentors. Earle is certain to be nominated, as are such other outstanding coaches as Don McDonald of Stambaugh, Wayne Melchiori of Ironwood, Wayne Sicker of Calumet, Ron Rubick of St. Ignace, Rae Drake of Kingsford, Dick Mettlich of Crystal Falls, Juan Mentink of Houghton and others.

If you think there was some heavy slugging on the Upper Peninsula gridiron this fall, you should see the action when the writers make their pitch for the winner of this year's Barber Trophy, symbolic of the U.P. championship. The war will be waged on comparative schedules, scores against common foes, offensive and defensive records and so on long into the night. Crystal Falls and Ironwood are the obvious chief contenders, but there are sure to be others in the picture.

Assuming the writers come to agreement on the top coach and the best team in the Upper Peninsula this fall, how will they ever manage to boil the list of outstanding individuals down to the 11 finest players in classes A-B and C-D? That's a job to make strong men faint and mere sportswriters collapse with fatigue. When you realize there are 38 teams in the Upper Peninsula and each one boasts one or more stars, the magnitude of the chore becomes apparent.

We could make the job easy for the other newspaper writers, of course. We could run off our personal list of All-U.P. gridders, starting with Escanaba's superb Steve Oman, and including such area stickouts as Doug Nelson and Tom Brawley of Manistiquie, Tom Stadel, Bill Potvin and Keith Apelgren of Gladstone, Bob Briceo and John Lehouillier of Holy Name, Bob Haack, Ed Gauthier and Jim Hansen of Escanaba. But who would take our word for it? Nobody, that's who.

Blanda Figures Football Game For Young Players, But Not For George, Jr.

HOUSTON (UPI)—George Blanda, an ageless 37 with 16 seasons of professional football experience, believes football is a young man's game—but he doesn't want his son to follow in his record-breaking footsteps.

"If my son (George Jr.) ever puts on a football pad I'll walk out on him," Blanda said Thursday.

Blanda, the mainstay of the American League Houston Oilers, says the game has changed greatly since he first entered the pro ranks, but feels that he personally is much the same man as always.

"Some guys are old at 21," Blanda said, "personally I feel good. I can throw and kick as far as ever."

Blanda has come in for some rough treatment from Houston's fans en route to leading the Oilers to three Eastern Division AFL titles and two championships. He is somewhat bitter about it.

"Basically the booing doesn't affect me now as much as it did in the past," Blanda said.

"Playing quarterback you're always going to get booed eventually. Everybody places the blame on the quarterback."

Blanda, who played college football at Kentucky when there were only two college teams in the state, has completed 91 of 209 passes through seven games this year for 1,306 yards and 10 touchdowns. He ranks two points behind Willie Frazier as the Oilers' leading scorer, has kicked 13 of 13 points after touchdowns and nine of 11 field goals this year for 40 points.

Blanda holds the AFL record for the most touchdown passes in a season (36 in 1961), the most attempts (505) and completions (262) in a single season.

Three Teams Posted Perfect Grid Marks In Peninsula Action

Three Upper Peninsula football teams ran off undefeated, untied seasons and a fourth had only a tie to mar its record this fall.

Crystal Falls, Ironwood and St. Ignace fashioned eight straight victories for perfect marks. DeTour won six and tied one.

Only three other schools escaped with one defeat. Kingsford, Houghton and Stambaugh bowed once, with Stambaugh also playing a tie. Kingsford's defeat was suffered to Stambaugh while Houghton and Stambaugh lost only to Crystal Falls.

Capturing conference championships were Munising in the Great Lakes, Crystal Falls in the Copper Country, Kingsford in the Great Northern, Soo Loretto and DeTour in the Eastern, Ironwood in the Michigan-Wisconsin, St. Ignace in the Straits-Huron, Stambaugh in the Menominee Range and Powers-Spaulding and Pembine in the Wolverine.

Crystal Falls was the top scoring team in the Peninsula with 289 points and DeTour allowed only 13 points for the best defensive record.

Four teams that failed to post a victory this fall were Cedarville, Baraga, Gwinn and Rock.

Spartans Show Defense Value

NEW YORK (UPI)—Look no farther than Michigan State if you're trying to prove that Defense is the name of the game.

The No. 1 ranked Spartans, who have met seven opponents without a defeat, also are the nation's top defensive eleven against a running attack, according to National Collegiate Athletic Association statistics released today.

The Spartans have allowed only 402 yards on the ground thus far for a 57.4 yard per game average. Ranking a shade behind Michigan State is Cincinnati. The Bearcats have given up 225 yards for a 59.3 yard average.

Southern Mississippi is No. 1 in total defense, having allowed only 165 yards both rushing and passing in seven contests. Toledo is second, giving up 163.7 yards per game this season but the Rockets rate tops in pass defense, holding the opposition to 58.7 yards a game.

Arizona State is the best punting team in the nation, averaging 44.1 yards on 39 kicks, and Tennessee has allowed only 6.2 points per game this year, tops in that department.

Wildcat Quint Appears Here For Scrimmage

Coach Stan Albeck's Northern Michigan University Wildcat basketball team will stage a demonstration and practice scrimmage at the Escanaba High School gym Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p. m. There will be no admission charge.

The Wildcat mentor and his eager put on a similar demonstration last year.

Among the players on the Northern squad are Con Yagodzinski, former Holy Name star, and Pat Groleau, ex-Nahma standout.

The demonstration is sponsored by the Delta County Chapter of the Northern Michigan University Alumni Club. Alumni and friends will meet for a social hour following the program at the Sherman Hotel.

Bruins Reveal Hockey Secret

By United Press International

The winless Boston Bruins again demonstrated the secret for stopping the Chicago Black Hawks—stop Bobby Hull.

The Bruins had a leaky defense that allowed 44 shots on goal and a rookie goalie, Bernie Parent, just called up from Oklahoma City Wednesday night against the Black Hawks, but they shut out Hull for the first time this season and gained their first point in the National Hockey League season with a 2-2 tie.

Chicago, which had won four straight games in which Hull had scored eight goals, had scores from Ken Wharram, his fifth, and Doug Mohns, his sixth. Boston countered with scores by Ron Stewart and Murray Oliver, the latter tying the count 2-2 in the first minute of the final period.

New York rallied from a two-goal deficit to tie Toronto 2-2 in the only other NHL contest. The Rangers were aided by Toronto penalties that gave them a manpower advantage for 15 minutes in the contest.

Both New York tallies, by Jean Ratelle and Rod Gilbert, came on power plays.

Toronto had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Bob Pulford and George Armstrong.

Toronto visits Montreal tonight and Montreal travels to Detroit.

Drive Plowing Will Be Done By Road Commission

In accordance with Act 387 of the Public Acts of 1965, and pending receipt of a formal request from the County Board of Supervisors, snow removal will be made on private driveways within rural limits of Schoolcraft county by the Schoolcraft Road Commission.

Residential drives will be plowed at the rate of $25 for 300 feet or less, plus $5 for each additional 100 feet or fraction thereof, payable in advance.

Commercial drive plowing will be at a $30 minimum deposit, and actual plowing costs applied at the rate of $12.50 per hour for the snow. When such costs equal the deposit, a further deposit will be required to be paid in advance.

Residential drives 1,000 feet or more may be contracted on a commercial basis if desired, the commission states.

The intent of the Commission is to play in areas only where such service is not available from other sources.

W. Branch Bridge Will Be Repaired In Coming Year

Efforts to obtain a surplus-type Bailey bridge have failed and temporary repairs cannot be made this fall to the damaged West Branch bridge, the Schoolcraft Road Commission reports.

The general condition of the bridge structure is such that if temporary repairs were made, the bridge would be unsatisfactory and a hazardous crossing would result, it reports.

Hunters, campers and cabin owners will have a choice of three routes into the area, however, they are:

1) County Road 448 to the bridge site from M94 on the west.

2) County Road 448 (Creston Trail) from M28 on the north.

3) County Road 433, 436 and the Conservation Department High Water Truck Trail on the southeast.

The High Water Truck Trail is being placed in a passable condition, with the National Guard and Capt. John Paul Quick assisting.

The Road Commission states it believes the choice of alternate routes will not cause any undue inconvenience to the public and will enable the Commission to plan a more permanent type of structure in the coming year.

The bridge was recently damaged when a pulpwood truck went through it.
